Jake got a job and sponsor and has now become a lead resident @ C/B

MJD Wish List: Patio Set

Letting children sip alcohol may lead to drinking problems later in life?

Children under the age of 13 who were allowed to taste alcohol under parental supervision were more likely to have alcohol-related problems in late adolescence compared with those who weren't.

WHAT ADULTS CAN DO: Do not give alcohol to children, and when they become teenagers, talk together about alcohol use so that they don't feel alone when facing drinking decisions.
